Module 5.2 Assignment

Jazmin Fonseca – bioSite Interview

1. How would you describe yourself in three words?

    Emotional, bossy, and strong.

2. Where did you grow up, and what was your childhood like?

    I grew up in San Luis, Arizona. My childhood was filled with love, especially when I was spending time with my grandparents. I also grew up around my uncles, who taught us to be tough, enjoy sports, and never be afraid of a little competition. One of my favorite parts of growing up was spending summers in Ensenada, Mexico, where my grandparents would take us to a beach house. Those trips gave me some of my favorite childhood memories.

3. What is one of your favorite childhood memories?

    One of my favorite childhood memories is when my grandpa would come home from work and surprise us with little scratch-off prize toys. Another memory I'll never forget is watching him count his money at the kitchen table. My siblings and I would hide underneath the table, and he would purposely drop money for us to find. We genuinely thought he was dropping it by accident, but he knew exactly what he was doing. He would just laugh and enjoy watching how excited we got. Looking back, those little moments meant so much to me.

4. Who has influenced you the most in life, and why?

    My aunt Blanca has been one of the biggest influences in my life. She is strong, loving, generous, and independent. Growing up, I always admired the way she carried herself and how much she cared for the people around her. She has always been someone I look up to, and I've always wanted to become a strong and independent woman like her.

5. What hobbies or activities do you enjoy most?

    Some of my favorite things to do are sleeping, relaxing while watching crime documentaries, and playing board games with my family. I love spending quality time with the people closest to me, especially when there's a little friendly competition involved.

6. How did you become interested in those hobbies?

My boyfriend introduced me to a lot of different board games, and I quickly realized how much I enjoyed playing them. I'm naturally very competitive, so once I started playing, I always wanted to keep going until I could beat him. What started as something fun to do together became one of my favorite activities.

7. What is an accomplishment you are especially proud of?

One of my proudest accomplishments was being nominated at work to represent the She is PepsiCo initiative. As part of the recognition, a PepsiCo trailer was dedicated to promoting women in manufacturing and featured my picture. It was an incredible feeling to be recognized and to know that I could help inspire other women to pursue careers in an industry that has traditionally been male-dominated. It's an accomplishment I'll always be proud of.

8. What has been one of the biggest challenges you've overcome?

One of my biggest personal challenges has been learning to be more patient with others. I've had to understand that everyone is different and that people learn, communicate, and approach situations in their own ways. Learning to recognize those differences has helped me become more understanding and grow as a person.

9. What motivates you to keep working toward your goals?

My younger self is one of my biggest motivations. I grew up with very little, and I know what it's like to not have everything you want or need. Now that I've been given opportunities to create a better future, I don't want to take any of them for granted. I keep pushing myself because I want to build a life that I can truly enjoy and be proud of. I also want to make the younger version of myself proud of how far I've come.

10. What personal or professional goals do you have for the future?

Some of my biggest goals are to marry my boyfriend, start a family, and buy a home together. I want us to continue building a happy and stable future where we can create memories, accomplish our goals, and enjoy everything we've worked hard for.

11. What is something about you that most people don't know?

Something most people don't know about me is that I've always dreamed of becoming a mom. Growing up, I would always tell people that I didn't want kids, but deep down, becoming a mother was something I truly wanted. I guess I just wasn't ready to admit it back then.

12. What advice would you give someone who wants to pursue their dreams?

Keep going, even when things get difficult. Don't give up on yourself or the things you want in life. Sometimes you have to put yourself first, and there's nothing wrong with that. It's okay to say no, set boundaries, and make decisions that are best for your future. At the end of the day, you're the one responsible for creating the life you want, so don't be afraid to go after it.

Design Inspiration

When planning Jazmin's bioSite, I wanted to create a website that felt personal, welcoming, and easy to navigate. Since the website focuses on her childhood, family, accomplishments, and hobbies, I wanted the overall design to feel warm without being overly complicated.

I selected a color palette consisting of Dusty Rose, Blush Pink, Warm Ivory, Charcoal, and Muted Gold. These colors create a soft, modern appearance while keeping the content easy to read. I also chose a combination of serif headings and simple body text to give the website a clean but slightly elegant style.

My layout inspiration came from minimalist personal portfolio websites that use large photographs, clear headings, and plenty of white space. I wanted the images to help tell Jazmin's story rather than simply act as decoration. Each of the three pages will focus on a different part of her life while maintaining the same colors, navigation, and overall design.

I also used front-end style guide examples to understand how consistent typography, navigation, buttons, and spacing can improve the visitor's experience. By following these ideas, my goal is to create a bioSite that feels organized and visually appealing while highlighting Jazmin's personality and achievements.
